Kristen was diagnosed with ALL at age 7 and relapsed at age 12 and given a 30% chance of survival. She completed treatment just before high school, earned a degree in Education and then suffered serious side effects of chemotherapy. Today Kristen is cancer free as she continues her education in nursing and has become an advocate for those facing childhood cancer. She has authored a children's book titled "Wootzie's: Super Heroes against the Cancer Invaders" and published her story titled "True to Myself" in Chicken Soup for the Soul: Think Positive for Kids. Join us as we read "The Wootzie's", hear more about Kristen's story and learn what we can do to help those challenged by childhood cancer!
